-----------------------	---------------	---------------------	--------------	---------------------	--------------	------------------------	------------

Smaller numbers of plainer quality were yarded, with only a limited selection of prime lambs and heavy weight ewes available. Lighter weight and store lamb drafts, mostly Merinos, dominated the penning. Not all buyers were operating and live export purchases were selective, resulting in weaker prices overall. Lower average quality was a significant contributor to the price reductions.

Light lambs sold between $85 and $116/head, with prices either side of firm but mostly cheaper. Trade weight lambs made from $95 to $150, with better lambs firm and the plainer majority $6 to $10/head cheaper. Heavy lambs made from $132 to $152/head to be close to firm. Very light lamb to processors made from $50 to $93/head, back significantly, and those to restockers sold either side of firm, although most trended cheaper.

Ewe sales also varied with the heavier ewes back $1 for an $85/head average. Medium weight ewes sold $1 to $10/head dearer, with most between $57 and $88 for a $73/head average. Light weight drafts made $35 to $58/head. Wether prices were mixed, with the lighter drafts to restockers lifting on increased restocker competition and most made from $55 to $85/head. Heavier stores made $70 to $95, with the export weight drafts mostly selling to processors at similar prices between $85 and $108/head. Ram lambs lacked quality, with a small number at $110 but most from $60 to $75/head. Rams to feed made $30 to $58 and old rams made returned from 410 to $40/head.
